Six months' free access to Maximum Security from Trend Micro

Many employees who have been instructed or who have chosen to work from home during the COVID-19 outbreak will be using their own devices. To help reduce the security risks, we encourage everyone to ensure protection software has been installed on home laptops and devices.

Trend Micro Maximum Security provides comprehensive protection against online threats.

- Defends against web threats such as ransomware and other online dangers
- Shields user's privacy by blocking dangerous websites that can steal personal data
- Avoids fraud and scams by guarding against phishing emails

How it works

- Sign up to receive a product download URL that you can share with your employees.
- Employees download and activate the Maximum Security product for either their personal Microsoft Windows or Mac computer (one device per download).
- Your employees will be given six months' free access.
- After the six months, their access will simply expire (unless the individual decides they would like to renew the product).

In addition to this special offer, employees can also choose to download a free one-month Maximum Security trial for mobile devices from a mobile app store.
